A PUBLIC CALAMITY

(By Editor Wood, of Wine and Spirit Review.)

Editor Bohannon of the "Tomp and Country Magazine," in a recent editorial on the discovery in this city of a specific for chronic Bright's disease declares his personal knowledge that the curability of this hitherto deadly disease is now an established fact. He closes a strong article thus:

"Many broad physicians are using the new diuretic, but in view of the terrible annual death list from this disease the fact that medical ethics prevent them from proclaiming the discovery to the world because the formula is the property of individuals, in this instance practically amounts to a public calamity. Well said. It is a public calamity. Here is a disease that is supposed to be fatal, that is carrying off 60,000 to 70,000 people annually, according to the census, and yet actual tests in this city show that nearly nine-tenths of the cases can and do recover under the new treatment. And if the question of the curability of chronic Bright's disease was on trial before the Superior Court, hundreds of citizens of this city, including capitalists, professional and business men, could go into the witness box to swear to their recoveries, and among them would be the editor of this publication. Five years ago I was believed to be beyond further help—a clear case of Bright's disease in its chronic stage. I was sent South to prolong life. Recovery seemed as impossible as a bolt of lightning from a cloudless sky. The new diuretic was brought into the case. In six months I was as well as I ever was in my life. I told several others. They got the same results. It is greatly to be regretted that unscrupulous medical advertisers have brought almost universal discredit upon their announcements, for with the usual channels of publicity distrusted and the hands of the medical profession tied by ethics, there appears to be no open channel through which the people of the whole country can be made acquainted with the convincing way of the profound results of Fulton's memorable struggle with this disease."

There is one way, and that would be for Congress to make an appropriation and procure the formula and give it to the Associated Press to be telegraphed all over the United States. It would in this way be at once universally available and would save tens of thousands of lives that would otherwise be sacrificed before it is generally known. With over 60,000 deaths a year from Bright's disease in the United States alone, is it possible that the saving of a majority of this vast army can be measured by any reasonable consideration? I understand that a relative of Senator Perkins by marriage, a 32-degree Mason and a prominent citizen of Philadelphia, was saved by the new diuretic, and am also advised that a relative of one of Senator Flint's valued friends has likewise recovered—in both cases after the finest professional services to be had had directly home to them. As one of the survivors of chronic Bright's disease and representing many more whom I know personally, I respectfully present the matter to United States Senators Perkins and Flint for their serious consideration. If anyone having knowledge of a case of Bright's Disease or Diabetes will send us the name and address, we will see that they are sent full literature concerning this remarkable discovery. F. J.
